Comments and analysis for Standard I: Instructional Leadership

Given the tools available over the year, the data-informed decision making result was proficient. However, as we launch the new dashboard and continue to improve the quality of and access to data, I believe attaining proficient in the next year will require even further data analysis and evidence that data is driving decisions appropriately.

(I-B) Dr. Dwight put significant work and planning into next year’s co-teaching pilot toward improving differentiated instruction. Her focus on creating more strategies and access points in this area is indicative of her attention to current educational practices, and is critical for the success of our diverse student learners. I feel there is also an opportunity to connect more with the community here, not only to gather feedback, but also to cement support. Next year as outcomes are analyzed, I hope we will be able to get input from a SEPAC to add to the other measures. While I understand why the superintendent innovation goal was narrowed, I would like to see future work around the areas that were eliminated, as well as widening of measures around technology and integration of the information we do have with longer term goals.

I commend Dr. Dwight on the strides made in addressing students with diverse needs. The work on the DCAP, the sharing with staff, and the piloting of the co-teaching program are strategic actions to hopefully improve the delivery of successful instruction for all of our students.

Dr. Dwight continues to deeply involve herself in all areas of Instructional Leadership at HPS. The key words differentiating the category of Exemplary from proficient are “empowers”, “leads”, and “models.” Those words describe Dr Dwight and her commitment to student achievement and teacher development.

The district is piloting an inclusive classroom model this year which is an important step towards expanding upon existing instructional leadership and our mission to provide an outstanding educational experience to “all” students. To move towards exemplary, the district will need to demonstrate that diverse learners are thriving in every classroom and that effective teacher strategies and student engagement strategies are broadly deployed to accommodate and include “all” learners. This includes demonstrable evidence towards high-quality planning, facilitation and monitoring (through multiple formal/informal classroom observations) of teacher/team plans to assess and measure student learning and growth as well as making adjustments to practice and instruction to accommodate and ensure successful student learning and growth. While there is ample evidence of data being used in and by the district, it is still early in the process of building out the data effort to more deeply analyze the district, and in particular, develop the capacity to diagnose (with data) the schools' strengths & weaknesses, and use of data to support the creation of a new district strategic plan and annual goals.

Dr. Dwight's strength in this area is her vision of implementing innovative teaching and learning throughout the district. Harvard is limited in this area because of our small size and the need for the superintendent to handle multiple roles usually delegated to other staff. By using a collaborative approach and leveraging her staff's strengths, Dr. Dwight has ensured our curriculum is aligned with state standards and is documented and sustainable; has identified and put in place a data tool to help assess the effective use of technology in the classrooms; and is set to pilot a co-teaching model to improve instructional practices. I think it would be helpful for SC members to receive an overview on the process used for teacher evaluations by the principals to increase awareness of how Harvard's instruction quality is assessed/insured.

Linda's leadership in curriculum is shown time and again throughout the district. Teachers presenting on innovative instruction such as the use of CAD programs for students at Bromfield to design a new sound booth and her support of experiential learning through community service and travel in New Orleans and Normandy exemplify this leadership. The use of data for goal setting, goal monitoring and decision making for individual students and teachers as well as classrooms, schools and the district also exemplify her instructional leadership.

Superintendent's Performance Rating for Standard II: Management and Operations. Promotes the learning and growth of all students and the success of all staff by ensuring a safe, efficient, and effective learning environment, using resources to implement appropriate curriculum, staffing, and scheduling.

Comments and analysis for Management and Operations:

Dr. Dwight has a comprehensive understanding of state laws and regulations and district policies. School committee would benefit from getting some insight into the HR management and development, such as how new teachers are on-boarded. I expect the work there is proficient (there aren’t, as far as I know, a higher proportion of complaints/issues with new teachers compared to more senior teachers), and the work to support direct reports such as the operations and financial managers, as documented in the provided evidence, is clearly proficient.

(II-B) Dr. Dwight hired within the budget for two important roles this year and provided intensive support for them to launch effectively. She facilitated connections needed for them to be successful in their roles and in a short period of time both have made positive contributions to the district. We also lost an assistant principal this year after a short tenure in spite of taking measures to retain him. While this may have been unavoidable, we should ask whether any changes (policy, contract, etc) are warranted that would be helpful in the future. As the business manager role is further developed, the school community would benefit from more commentary and visuals around budget information in order to make it more accessible.

The budget process is an area our district excels at. The process is well-executed to provide maximum efficiency of education funds. Appreciate that the district considered job candidates who didn't have direct position experience. This has helped identify high-quality employees beyond a limited pool.

Dr. Dwight's leadership once again embodies the descriptive words in the exemplary choice. How she leads is through true collaboration with all stakeholders. An example, instead of developing a budget on her own, she absolutely leads her team through this process every year.

The hiring of Jon has been a bright spot as he has demonstrated significant personal responsibility and ownership of our campus. Dr Dwight's idea to pair him with a mentor to aid in his learning and navigation of public schools was a best practice that has provided excellent dividends for the district and town. Dr Dwight is committed to developing a strong management and operations effort, demonstrated by her commitment and investment in her leadership team. Further development in this area includes continued facilitation and adoption of effective practices and culture that promotes learning and professional development for all staff at all performance levels. An ideal outcome would be demonstrable evidence that development and growth into a high-quality practice is happening across all staff, at the expected pace. Earlier this year, Dr Dwight presented details about summer PD and it was great to discuss the rationale of what had been approved or denied, this provided insight into how the district assesses the quality of PD and was valuable for the committee to understand. Further discussion and presentation on how PD is assessed for high-quality and impact on her direct reports and teacher development and growth would be another valuable discussion. Lastly, while we have an aligned vision and mission, the current budget is not level-service. It is imperative the full committee understand all the potential needs and trade-offs faced by the district and have an opportunity to better understand how the "sausage gets made". Not only will this provide the committee with greater continuity throughout tenure changes; it will ensure we are able to better support Dr Dwight throughout the budget process and serve as community advocates to ensure we retain a levelservice budget.

Dr. Dwight's identification of the need to bring in a new facilities manager has greatly improved the maintenance and operations of the Bromfield School. Jon has brought a level of passion and resourcefulness that has resulted in savings for the district while speeding up repairs to the school. Similarly, the hiring of the business manager, Aziz, has added expertise to the management of the district's financial operations. As our budget has been tightened Aziz has provided critical support in understanding the impact of the cuts and has provided guidance to the committee when making difficult choices.

An exemplary rating is warranted here for Linda's constant attention to detail on all of the many moving parts of the district. From her vision with hiring Jon and Aziz to her request for increasing wages for well deserving staff, she seems to consistently have her focus on keeping all parts of the district aligned and moving forward together. She holds high standards for all members of the district that promote excellent citizenship and growth for all students and faculty. She is familiar with and utilizes the relevant and applicable law, policy and ethics required to stay in line with legal requirements.

Comments and analysis for Family and Community Engagement

Dr. Dwight exhibits excellent communications skills and concern for families. She shows initiative and willingness to meet with parents to identify students' needs and to resolve issues; however, based on various parental feedback, that initiative does not always extend to everyone that works for her. She should work further to model this behavior and lead her team to engage themselves with the community and families for the benefit of all our students.

Dr. Dwight is perceived as visible and accessible. Her work on the new elementary school has been tireless year after year, and she has committed many evenings to meeting with town boards and sponsoring community forums. Her creation of the Hildreth to Hildreth and playground advisories this year demonstrates thoughtful commitment to our elementary students and families, but also makes a values statement to the wider community. Consideration should be given to optimal deployment of time and effort: information in meetings that are poorly attended might be better disseminated another way; and other opportunities to engage our students and families, or to make them feel heard, may be getting overlooked. Many in town appreciated that Dr. Dwight approached this year’s budget determined to cut enough to avoid an override. I recognize that extreme care was taken in trying to balance the needs of our students with the sensitivity of our community to any added expense. Going forward the School Committee needs to ensure in budgeting that we do not allow the fact of borrowing for a new elementary school to eclipse the accurate cost of educating a student in our district.

Dr. Dwight has made it a priority to reach out and truly connect with the community and families on subjects such as the HES building project, health and wellness initiatives, and she genuinely wants to hear people’s concerns.

In reviewing the evidence, nearly all of it was focused on the school building. What would this have looked like if the building effort wasn’t underway? Dr Dwight has a generous open door policy and frequently meets/offers to meet with parents and community members. Her personal sense of responsibility and ownership is a best practice. It would be a great presentation for the upcoming year to better understand how her leadership team and staff carry out this best practice approach to encourage feedback, ensure open dialogue, address concerns and reach solutions that serve the interests of the student, as well as where there may be blind (or quiet) spots where parents are less engaged.

Dr. Dwight consistently excels in engaging families and the community. She has on many occasions reached out directly to some of her most vocal critics to hear their concerns and when possible, work to resolve their complaints. She writes pieces for the local paper to highlight/explain current issues and is quick to push information out to the community when situations arise. In the past she started the athletic advisory group to bring the many varied constituents together to improve our sports programs. In light of the issues surrounding the softball field she again reached out to concerned residents, key stakeholders and kept SC members apprised of the situation. Recently she pulled together members of the community to start the Hildreth to Hildreth fundraising initiative for the school and seniors. Dr. Dwight continues to be closely involved with the school building project and has been an invaluable resource and aid to me as she turned over the leadership of the committee so that she could focus on the management of the schools.
In many areas, the family and community engagement that Linda achieves are exemplary including the school building project, Arm in Arm, Hildreth to Hildreth, the student leadership group at HES and many others. Areas of improvement here that kept this rating from being overall exemplary: engagement with families that have single parents or two working parents could be improved as most events and meetings are held during school day hours. Additionally, I have spoken to a few families that do not feel adequately supported by the current special education program. Communication with families tends to be mostly one-way through newsletters and technology like Class Dojo and Seesaw. However, many teachers and faculty are very responsive and accessible for 2 way communication. Many strengths not mentioned in my comments keep this rating at proficient and leaning towards exemplary.

Comments and analysis for Professional Culture:

In my interactions with Dr. Dwight, she is consistently working on continuous personal improvement. Given time for reflection, she is able to assess facts and arguments and has shown a willingness to change her mind or approach to some problems. I hope that her leadership team also is able to see that she self-assesses and course-corrects, as employees are especially more likely to undertake this behavior themselves when their leader is modeling it for them.

Dr. Dwight's work as a founding member of Arm in Arm has generated a number of innovative and well thought out programs for the school and community that are designed to foster inclusiveness. We need to begin measuring outcomes as well. Have teachers' and students' behavior changed as the result of this focus and programming, and if so, how? Inclusivity in all its dimensions is a fast developing and shifting area, and it is critical to the well-being of our students for us to approach this with consistent pressure for continuous learning and improvement. Practices put in place only a short time ago are likely to arise as no longer sufficient. The community will be best served if Dr. Dwight's leadership models the embrace of changes that will be needed.

Dr. Dwight's leadership shines in the areas of commitment to high standards, cultural proficiency, communication, continuous learning and shared vision. Her commitment to quality and attention in these areas spreads through the district to all staff and is critical to the success of our schools. The district's regular practices of the District Vision and Mission, District Improvement Plan, School Improvement Plans, well-structured and targeted professional development days, etc. provide great framework for the continual progress and improvement of our district.

Dr. Dwight is an extremely effective communicator both in oral and written capacities. She is a true leader in bringing people together to solve a problem or facilitate a discussion. She has high expectations for the District and she's working steadily to facilitate (with all stakeholders) reaching those goals.

Dr Dwight has been instrumental in steering the district to greater inclusion and diverse thinking. This is critically important in our changing, global landscape and an important area of focus for our district if our students are expected to develop an ability to understand diverse perspectives. The work done with the Teja video and bias training is necessary, as is the Challenge Day for 8th graders, but what's also key to moving towards building a consensus of inclusivity is continued practice in this space. How do we measure the efficacy of these efforts? How do we ensure the connections made during Challenge Day are lasting and reinforced throughout the rest of the year? How do we assess and ensure the textbook/materials bias review results in the district using the most relevant, multi-perspective materials for our student learning?

Dr. Dwight's communication and empowerment skills are of the highest caliber. She is thoughtful and reflective, takes responsibility for her actions and works for continual improvement. She works to train her admin team in these areas, and has made progress which I hope continues so the district can realize Dr. Dwight's vision for excellence and innovation.

Linda is consistently organized, aligned with goals and mission and leading the district in a confident, competent and professional capacity. She leads organized, on topic, inclusive and focused meetings connecting work to district goals. Examples of cultural competency abound including fairs and community discussions. Continuing consideration should be given to diversity among students in order to elevate all students not just the typical "Bromfield kid" as was discussed at the SC retreat this summer. I have witnessed as a parent, community member and SC member, Linda’s consistency in building consensus as our district leader.

Step 4: Add Evaluator Comments

As we have noted in multiple meetings, Harvard is already a high-performing district, for which we are largely stewards who have the luxury of looking for ways to turn the good into the great. Dr. Dwight has proficiently steered the district in the past year as we continue updating curriculum, integrating technology and the SAMR model, increasing our use of data-driven methodologies, and supporting and enriching a diverse and varied student body.

I dislike the category labels on this tool and feel it would be improved by changing "needs improvement" to "developing," similarly to how some school report cards have been adjusted, and for much the same reasons. I appreciate Dr. Dwight's passionate commitment to our district, her ability to multitask, her impressive work ethic, her significant knowledge base, and her willingness to engage in reflection. Going forward, I would like to see her frank assessment of her own strengths and areas she wants to develop further, because we cannot create a true continuous learning environment in our district without actively recognizing and supporting development needs and opportunities for its leader. A public annual evaluation piloted by 5 people with random backgrounds at various points in their 3-year terms has to be one of the oddest and most confounding things ever to endure, but it is actually not so unlike accountability to the voters that put committee members here in the first place. Based on feedback and observation, the areas that have stood out for me over the course of the year as candidates for continued focus are community engagement, transparency, and partnership building; a rigorous and data-based approach to program, faculty and staff evaluation; efforts to bring longer range planning into sharper focus; and an increasing shift from direct administration to empowerment and modeling. If bandwidth doesn’t currently allow for this type of concentration, how can the School Committee help create more time and space? Successful changes in these areas plus identification and pursuit of opportunities to create and share models of district achievements could provide evidence for exemplary ratings in future evaluation metrics.

Dr. Dwight continues to lead our district in a professional, and caring manner in a continual forward-moving direction. Her ability to work with administration and staff in a team/collaborative manner provides a healthy/productive environment in our district. Dr. Dwight is a leader in the best sense of the word. She leads, collaborates, facilitates, empowers, models, implements, creates, and above all, she listens. I am consistently impressed with her calm, yet confident nature to lead the district ever forward. I think her secret is in her ability to empower people to be their best selves and to always further their education. It may have been a difficult decision to step down as chair of the Building Committee, but she made the right decision for the entire HPS district. Lastly, Dr. Dwight will undoubtedly strive to continue her own professional development, which in turn will positively impact our entire school district.

After working with Dr. Dwight for eight years, and seeing her grow into her role as Superintendent of the HPS, I have come to realize how lucky we are to have her as our leader. I have worked with and evaluated many other superintendents and while each person brings a certain strength to the job, Dr. Dwight's combination of skills, talents and drive distinguishes her in her field. There is yet much work to be done in our district in improving the use of data-driven decisions, building support for innovating teaching in our classrooms, strengthening visionary leadership, gaining community support for increased funding of the school budget and fostering communication from parents to improve our school environments but we are well poised to tackle these challenges, especially with continued partnership between the school committee and our superintendent.

Dr. Dwight leads our district with impressive organization, active listening, flexibility, focus, and purposeful action - all of which keep the many needs of this district met. I have been incredibly impressed with her vision, leadership, knowledge, attention to detail, growth mindset and high standards. She is a team player and consensus builder consistently advocating for students, teachers and faculty. All together, her exemplary leadership is what continues to keep the young people of Harvard healthy, safe, learning and growing.
I. Superintendents' Conference
Standard IV: Professional Culture

I joined 400+ superintendents from around the state at the M.A.S.S. Summer Institute from July 8th – July 11th. Speakers included Dr. Tyrone Howard, Professor and Dean at UCLA who spoke about diversity in our schools. His creative approach included dressing like a teenager and mingling with the superintendents before he jumped onto the stage to share his educational journey and his research. He captivated the audience with his mix of music, story-telling, and knowledge.

One of the workshop sessions that I attended introduced the revised DESE superintendent rubric. Here is the link for the resources: http://www.doe.mass.edu/edeval/resources/evaluation/default.html One of the suggestions from the presenters included scheduling presentations throughout the year that address specific sections of the rubric. For instance, a presentation on how we evaluate teachers and provide feedback was recently suggested by one of our members.

II. Procurement Training
Standard II: Management and Operations

Aziz helped set up a state-wide procurement training at Bromfield. The on-site location enabled four of us from the district to attend the three days and take the test to secure the documentation. All of us passed the test so now Aziz, Jon, Chris and I are certified. The knowledge gained in the course will be helpful as we continue to improve the facilities and make other upgrades or acquisitions.

III. Teacher Leadership Summit
Standard I: Instructional Leadership

The district leaders (department chairs, vertical team leaders, principals, coordinators, and directors) met on July 18th to review the District Improvement Plan, discuss research articles, set goals, and set agenda topics for our meetings throughout the year.

After the meeting, leaders and their families were invited to my house for a BBQ and swimming.

III. School Readiness Meeting
Standard III: Community Engagement

Community leaders joined together for the annual readiness meeting on August 19th. The agenda included updates on the construction projects and their impacts, transportation, fire drills and regulations, snow removal, building project updates and more. We also use the meeting to ensure up to date contact information that is shared within the group. Thanks to John for representing the School Committee at this year’s meeting.
IV. Budget Savings
Standard II: Management and Operations

Preliminary budget reports of the unexpected job changes have resulted in a projected savings of $130,520. Please see the attached report prepared by Aziz and Mary. The leadership team would like to bring you some recommendations for expending the funds at an upcoming meeting.

V. Summer Projects
Standard II: Management and Operations

The schools are clean and ready for the arrival of students on Wednesday. The custodial staff worked long hours to finish the waxing, furniture moving, and disposal of old items. Meanwhile, Jon has run into a few issues with the larger projects. The carpeting in the Cronin got off to a late start and was not done in time for the convocation. The kitchen floor was applied too thick for the newly installed refrigerator door to open and close. A new door is being made so Chef Paul had to have a stand alone refrigeration unit delivered to hold the food needed for school to open. Everyone has been working together as a team to solve these problems and remain flexible.

RE: Donation of office furniture to schools

Dear Mary,

At Nizhoni Health, we are dedicated to helping patients as well as supporting the communities we service. It was our pleasure to donate to the Harvard Public school system. We hope our donation of desks, chairs, filing cabinets, and other office furniture provides years of use for your staff as they support the learning and education of the students in the Harvard school system.

Thank you very much for your help coordinating this effort.

Rev 1: 1/19
DESCRIPTION:

This grant proposal was inspired by a seventh grade project from the spring of 2019 titled "Big Problem, Small Change." In the project, students had to find a large scale environmental problem and then figure out a small scale change that they could make individually to try to help the problem. After seeing which problems students chose, I felt motivated to do something myself as a teacher.

Problem number one: plastic waste. After seeing photos of the negative impacts plastic is having on our planet, I feel guilty asking my students to use disposable plastic straws for several of our science labs in class. Many students asked what I would do with the straws after they had used them and I really didn’t have a good answer. The small change I would like to try is reusable metal straws. I am requesting enough straws and cleaning brushes to have two class sets so that when one set is being cleaned and/or dried the other side is available to use. I estimate this will eliminate having to dispose of about 200 plastic straws per year in my classroom.

Problem number two: trash around campus. For several years now I have been bringing students outside to make observations and take photos of the changing seasons during the school year. As we walk around campus we often see litter. Once each year, usually around the time of Earth Day, the seventh grade teachers bring students out to help clean up around campus. While this is a good thing to do once a year, I would like to see it happen more often, and I would like to see it happen without generating extra waste in the process of cleaning. Specifically, we usually give students disposable gloves to wear and plastic bags to collect trash. I would like to eliminate the gloves and the bags by providing students with grabbing tools they can use to pick up the litter, and we will put the litter into reusable plastic buckets which I plan to collect by crowd sourcing.

Both of these projects will have lasting duration with a heavy emphasis on the first two of the 3Rs: reduce and reuse.

  - 5 Adopt MASC language and leave choices up to employer
  - 4 have no policy at all
  - 1 has adopted policy with unpaid and exhaustion requirement
GBGF – Family/Medical Leave

- Trivial word replacements (system -> district, regulations -> procedures)

School Improvement Plan Report Out: TBS
Scott Hoffman and Robin Benoit reviewed The Bromfield School Improvement Plan by sharing the 21st Century Skills essential for a Bromfield graduate. SusanMary Redinger recommended a need to establish a Subcommittee for Athletics.

The construction costs have come in at $500K over budget at this point. The project manager is confident that there are pushes and pulls to make up that difference. I. Superintendents’ Conference
Standard IV: Professional Culture

I joined 400+ superintendents from around the state at the M.A.S.S. Summer Institute from July 8th – July 11th. Speakers included Dr. Tyrone Howard, Professor and Dean at UCLA who spoke about diversity in our schools. His creative approach included dressing like a teenager and mingling with the superintendents before he jumped onto the stage to share his educational journey and his research. He captivated the audience with his mix of music, story-telling, and knowledge.

One of the workshop sessions that I attended introduced the revised DESE superintendent rubric. Here is the link for the resources; http://www.doe.mass.edu/edeval/resources/evaluation/default.html

One of the suggestions from the presenters included scheduling presentations throughout the year that address specific sections of the rubric. For instance, a presentation on how we evaluate teachers and provide feedback was recently suggested by one of our members.

II. Procurement Training
Standard II: Management and Operations

Aziz helped set up a state-wide procurement training at Bromfield. The on-site location enabled four of us from the district to attend the three days and take the test to secure the documentation. All of us passed the test so now Aziz, Jon, Chris and I are certified. The knowledge gained in the course will be helpful as we continue to improve the facilities and make other upgrades or acquisitions.

I. Teacher Leadership Summit
Standard I: Instructional Leadership

The district leaders (department chairs, vertical team leaders, principals, coordinators, and directors) met on July 18th to review the District Improvement Plan, discuss research articles, set goals, and set agenda topics for our meetings throughout the year.

After the meeting, leaders and their families were invited to my house for a BBQ and swimming.

III. School Readiness Meeting
Standard III: Community Engagement

Community leaders joined together for the annual readiness meeting on August 19th. The agenda included updates on the construction projects and their impacts, transportation, fire drills and regulations, snow removal, building project updates and more. We also use the meeting to ensure up to date contact information that is shared within the group. Thanks to John for representing the School Committee at this year’s meeting.
IV. Budget Savings
Standard II: Management and Operations

Preliminary budget reports of the unexpected job changes have resulted in a projected savings of $130,520. Please see the attached report prepared by Aziz and Mary. The leadership team would like to bring you some recommendations for expending the funds at an upcoming meeting.

V. Summer Projects
Standard II: Management and Operations

The schools are clean and ready for the arrival of students on Wednesday. The custodial staff worked long hours to finish the waxing, furniture moving, and disposal of old items. Meanwhile, Jon has run into a few issues with the larger projects. The carpeting in the Cronin got off to a late start and was not done in time for the convocation. The kitchen floor was applied too thick for the newly installed refrigerator door to open and close. A new door is being made so Chef Paul had to have a stand alone refrigeration unit delivered to hold the food needed for school to open. Everyone has been working together as a team to solve these problems and remain flexible.
